

Documents

Besson, M.^a , Léonard, G.^b , Mouraux, A.^c , Poisbeau, P.^d

50 Years of IASP: Reviewing the Vitality of Pain Research and Contributions from the French-speaking World [50 ans de l’IASP: une revue de la vitalité des recherches sur la douleur et des contributions francophones] (2024) Douleur et Analgesie, 37 (1), pp. 1-12. Cited 1 time.

DOI: 10.1684/dea.2024.0284

^a Médecin adjointe agrégée, Hôpitaux Universitaires de Genève, Professeure assistante, Faculté de médecine de Genève, Genève, Switzerland
^b Professeur titulaire à l'École de réadaptation, Professeur associé au département d'anesthésiologie et Chercheur boursier clinicien senior du Fonds de recherche du Québec – Santé, Groupe de recherche sur les aînées, la neurostimulation et la douleur (GRAND), Faculté de médecine et des sciences de la santé de l'Université de Sherbrooke, Centre de recherche sur le vieillissement du Centre intégré universitaire de santé et de services sociaux de l'Estrie, Centre hospitalier universitaire de Sherbrooke, Sherbrooke, QC, Canada
^c Professeur de médecine, Institut de Neurosciences, Université Catholique de Louvain (UCL), Bruxelles, B-1200, Belgium
^d Professeur de Physiologie et de Neurosciences, membre sénior de l'Institut universitaire de France, directeur de l'École universitaire de recherche interdisciplinaire sur la douleur, Université de Strasbourg, Centre national de la recherche scientifique, laboratoire de Neurosciences cognitives et adaptatives, Strasbourg, France

Abstract
For this first issue of 2024, the editors felt that circumstances called for an article to celebrate a number of events. Pain and Analgesia is the leading French-language journal for clinicians and researchers working in the field of pain. It is the official organ of the French Society for the Study and Treatment of Pain and is also an affiliate of the Swiss and Belgian societies. On the Canadian side, we are delighted to have the support of our Quebec colleagues, who have been an enrichment to our editorial team with the dynamism of their research. We are therefore delighted to welcome John Libbey Eurotext as the new publisher of the journal. This will enable us to continue to develop the journal and offer readers new content. This new edition of the journal now includes a quarterly press review. The first issue of the year is longer than usual as it celebrates the 50th anniversary of the IASP (International Association for the Study of Pain) and some of the French-speaking personalities who have contributed to its development. You'll therefore find a few tributes to start with, before going on to look at the Press Review. The press review will take stock of the articles that have been most frequently quoted over the last 50 years. We will then look at 5 major articles from 2023, before presenting the first 'nuggets' from the first quarter of 2024. © JLE 2024.

Author Keywords
Belgian Pain Society; Francophone research; INSERM pain network; Réseau québécois de recherche sur la douleur; Société française d'étude et de traitement de la douleur; Swiss Pain Society; • Keywords: History of pain

Index Keywords
analgesia, analgesic activity, Belgian, clinician, drug therapy, French (language), human, pain, personality, Quebec, review, speech, Swiss, therapy

Correspondence Address
Poisbeau P.; Professeur de Physiologie et de Neurosciences, France; email: poisbeau@unistra.fr

Publisher: John Libbey

ISSN: 1011288X
CODEN: DOANE
Language of Original Document: French
Abbreviated Source Title: Douleur Analg.
2-s2.0-85196674544
Document Type: Review
Publication Stage: Final
Source: Scopus